1992 U.S. Olympic Coins

After endless, lonely hours of effort, discipline, ambition, and hope, the Olympic competitor's actual performance is fleeting, momentary — charged with a magical energy that can't be duplicated. Until now.

Introducing 1992 U.S. Olympic Commemorative Coins These are the only Olympic coins minted by the U.S. Mint, an agency of the United States Treasury Department. Each one displays a climactic moment on the road to Olympic victory, and helps fund the athletes who travel that road.

Support our Olympic athletes and secure a treasured keepsake

A percentage of your coin order is paid directly to the United States Olympic Committee to train and finance USA Olympic hopefuls. So, as you watch the Olympic Winter Games (Albertville, France — February 8-23), you can feel an extra sense of pride because you've helped support America's best.

Get a personal thank-you from an Olympic hopeful If you order your Olympic Coin right away, you may receive an autographed thank-you note from an American athlete. The U.S. Mint is distributing a limited number of authentic Olympic hopeful autographs in two-coin proof sets, three-coin proof sets and six-coin sets while supplies last.

The limited-edition autograph is just one exciting feature of this program. The uncirculated Olympic silver dollar is the first U.S. coin since the early 1930s to feature edge lettering. Plus, the open design competition held for these coins resulted in elegant, memorable pieces of art.

Reserve your own Olympic moment today If your Olympic Coin order is postmarked no later than February 28, 1992, you'll receive a special pre-issue discount. So, don't delay. Each coin is available in mirror-like proof and standard uncirculated versions.
